Wildlife Conservation Is Rewarding, Disheartening

Editor, Times-News: I have spent lots of time thought and energy in the recreational problems and needs of our community and the preservation of our wildlife heritage and the scenic beauty of Idaho.

Since I retired from farming 11 years ago I have found time to spend my time both rewarding and disheartening.

Reverend, I can see families with their happy children enjoying picknicking and playing in the several places along Snake river that have been developed.

Disheartening, because these developments are used and enjoyed by so many who seem to respect neither themselves nor anyone else by cluttering up the place and vandalism.

However, I think the good that is accomplished by the many who have taken the time to clean up after themselves is a lot more than the bad that is done.

I say this because it is heartening to see the many who have taken the time to clean up after themselves.

Everybody Has Backing Except Poor Public

Editor, Times-News: If our state department complies with the president of Panama, we may lose the canal and all our future.

Do the American people realize the people of Panama are the same as we are back of ours; and back of Panama is Castro with his Cuban back of Castro is Khrushchev with his Russian back of Khrushchev is American.

But, who is back of you and me, dear reader?

"California Water Grab?" Give It to 'em for Price

Editor, Times-News: I wish my tongue in my cheek I would like to comment on what this newspaper calls "California Water Grab."

Idaho has for years sent to California its most valuable resource—people. Most of our youth—camped—find—employment here in Idaho and have to go to California to find work and those of us who stay and earn a pot big enough to carry, retire and carry it to California.

Those of us who haven't gone to California may fill a decent job of having a lot of money enough to retire in California.

Bon Voyage Is Wish for Area Couple

KIMBERLY, Jan. 25—A European tour depicted in table decorations and background settings and a cry of "Bon Voyage" all were in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Colner at a party held at the home of Mac and Mrs. J. P. Seaback.

Many well wishers gathered at the Seaback home in bright colorful costumes representing the many countries Mr. and Mrs. Colner are going to visit on their European vacation.

Each couple attending the event, dressed in typical attire worn by countrymen of Germany, France, The Netherlands, Italy, Spain and Switzerland to coincide with the Colners' itinerary.

Elaborate displays of different countries were found throughout the house, adding to the European atmosphere.

Mr. and Mrs. Colner, accompanied by Joseph-Maurice Ogden, a close friend and business associate, left from the Twin Falls airport Thursday. They arrived in Amsterdam, Saturday. From Amsterdam they will go to Frankfurt, Germany.

At Munich, Germany, they will obtain an auto and move to Lucerne and Zurich. They expect to arrive in Rome Feb. 1 and spend several days. From Rome they will fly to Nice, on the French Riviera, then on to the southern coast of Spain and Lisbon, Portugal. Then for the favorite place of all—four days in Paris. From Paris they will fly to New York, where they will visit friends. They plan to return home Feb. 15.

"Among the many people the Colners are going to visit are Mr. and Mrs. Fred-Oschlager, Zurich, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seaback."

Basque Dance Is Highlight Of Winter Social Season

BY NORMA HERZINGER

Bright gala costumes of the Basque maidens as they danced to their native songs enhanced one of the most colorful highlights of the winter social season.

The traditional Basque dances, such as the one sponsored annually in Shoshone by St. Peter's Catholic church Altar league, is considered one of the outstanding events of the season.

Basque maidens danced gaily to their colorful peasant-type folk music, with white or colored blouses accented with fitted Basque vests. Typical costumes for the men were dark trousers and white shirts, high-collared with colorful sashes and either black or red berets.

No doubt the colorful background of a warm, sociable people whose old country love of music and life itself is what reserves charm to the average visitor.

This is the traditional annual dance the Basque herders enjoy at the close of lambing season.

A special dance is called the La Jota, having variety in melody that outdoes any other Basque dance. This is a popular number among the Basque people who attend dances in Magic Valley each year.

The influx of Basques into the Boise area is believed to have begun in 1880. John Archabal, who was known as a "sheep king" when he died, came to Idaho in 1880, and began working for $30 a month. Many Basque success stories are told of these ambitious people.

When Archabal died at 72 years, his properties were valued at a million dollars.

Most of the Basques came here to herd sheep. Today their sons and daughters are prominent in many businesses and professions. Old customs are dying out, but efforts are being made to preserve them.

Many of the Basque sheepherders were taken into partnership by their employers after proving themselves honest and reliable during long, lonely vigils on the range.

Historians describe the Basques as a "mysterious people" and much controversy has raged over their origin, still unsolved. The most historians credit their origin to the remnant of a people once spread over the whole Iberian peninsula and southern Gaul in prehistoric times.

The language closely approximates Latin American compositions.

DANCING THE LA JOTA, the most popular of all Basque dances, are a group of dancers at the annual Basque dance in Shoshone, sponsored by the St. Peter's Catholic church Altar league.

Wildcats Blaze In Last Half to Shatter Vandals

MOSCOW, Jan. 25 (UPI)—The Weber Wildcats swept over the University of Idaho for an 86-77 Big Sky conference victory tonight. Jim Lyon hit 29 points to lead Weber into its third conference victory against three losses and an overall 11-5 record. The Vandals, who lost 108-83 to Weber earlier in the season, are 1-5 in Big Sky play and 3-10 in the season.

The Vandals led most of the first half before Weber fired five consecutive threes to take a 36-34 halftime lead.

Weber broke the key to Idaho's zone early in the second half and added 50 points in that period.

The two clubs alternated leads until, with about 10 minutes remaining, Weber pulled away. When Jim Lyon hit a 29-point performance, the Vandals were fouled on a driving layup following a jump ball.

Lyon hit 11 of his 25 points in the last five minutes.

Tom Smith hit the Vandals with 21 followed by Ed Haskins with 19.

WEBER STUNNED IDAHO 77-86

	W	I		W	I

Assists	10	8	Assists	10	8
Steals	5	3	Steals	5	3
Blocks	2	1	Blocks	2	1
Fouls	15	18	Fouls	15	18

The move brings about a pretty big change in the line-up. The line-up in the first half was: Smith, Lyon, Haskins, and six in the sixth. This means the Wildcats have a new line-up for a special play game to get away from an unwinning line-up.

It came up with the plan of the two teams with the worst overall records meeting in the Big Sky. The Wildcats are 1-5 in the Big Sky and the Vandals are 3-10.

The tournament, by the way, will run on the same lines of last year. The first three nights, Feb. 27-29, will be at Hagerman and Camas County with the final week headed for Hagerman.

Coach Dave Latta is looking ahead to a possible shifting of the line-up. Latta is looking ahead to a possible shifting of the line-up.

Kansas City Offers Four-Year Lease, Finley Wants Only Two

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25 (AP)—A smiling, affable Charles O. Finley took under advisement today an offer by the city of Kansas City to lease the Municipal Stadium for four years. The city couldn't afford more than two years because of "bad publicity," he said. "I sincerely regret I can't accept a four-year proposal at this moment," Finley told city officials. "Bad publicity has given me, the ball club and the city a bad image. Four bad years would hurt me, but in two years I could bail myself out. However, we're happy to take your offer, under advisement."

The league rejected Finley's request to be the A's to Louisville. The city couldn't afford more than two years because of "bad publicity," he said. Four bad years would hurt me, but in two years I could bail myself out. However, we're happy to take your offer, under advisement."

The league rejected Finley's request to be the A's to Louisville. The city couldn't afford more than two years because of "bad publicity," he said. "I sincerely regret I can't accept a four-year proposal at this moment," Finley told city officials. "Bad publicity has given me, the ball club and the city a bad image. Four bad years would hurt me, but in two years I could bail myself out. However, we're happy to take your offer, under advisement."

Torrid Buhl Sweeps Past Pilots 59-48

OLENS FERRY, Jan. 25 (UPI)—The Buhl Indians turned in their finest shooting display of the season tonight, hitting 58 per cent and knocking off 414.

Olen's Ferry, getting solid play from Buhl and Buhl, led the Indians 29-24 at halftime and trailed only 42-38 into the final quarter. Buhl hit three more into double scoring figures with a strong finish.

Ringside Seat for Revolution Is Vivid Memory for Rupert Girl

RUPERT, Jan. 25—Very few people get a ringside seat at a revolution, an attempted revolution and an election in a year's time, but this was the experience of Kathy Shelton, who was 14 and has only foreign exchange student last year.

Miss Shelton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shelton, Rupert, spent 11 months in Argentina, two months as a member of the Juan Geronimo family in Panama and nine months as a member of the American Cross family in Santa Fe.

According to Miss Shelton, who lived in the capital city of Argentina for the most part of her stay, 23 political parties were represented in the presidential election which took place in 1963.

In many instances candidates announced their candidacy only weeks before the election, which was the circumstance of the elected president. The government is based on the United States constitution and a president is elected for six years.

However, Miss Shelton said she and Stanley, the son of the two presidents have finished the six-year term of office in the last 150 years.

Buildings in Santa Fe, which was founded in 1573, retain the flavor of their original structure, and "Miss Shelton" compared it with the size of Boke. The larger cities, where most of the people of Argentina live, are very modern and beautiful.

Argentina is the only nation in South America that even has the beginning of a middle class, and this is a good sign of progress, she notes. People either are very rich or extremely poor, according to Miss Shelton.

When she first arrived in Argentina, Miss Shelton related, it was very hard for her to look at the extreme poverty of some of the people, and especially the children.

The poorer class live in huts, called ranchos, which are made of sticks, adobe, grass or whatever is available, with dirt floors. There is no plumbing and water is carried from the ranchos, first, and all the cooking is done outside.

Many cars are driven in Argentina, but the horse and cart still is prevalent. According to Miss Shelton, the majority of the people ride motorcycles or bicycles.

Upon arrival in Argentina, the first major item to be considered was the language barrier. Miss Shelton reported the Spanish she had in high school was very different from the Spanish spoken there.

She had to converse entirely in Spanish and during the first month she was able to understand almost everything. During the second month she could say what was absolutely necessary, and by the fourth month she reported she was conversing very well. Before the year was over she even found herself dreaming in Spanish.

The exchange student spent two months in public school and seven months in a private school.

THINGS WERE INTERESTING during the year Kathy Shelton, Rupert, spent as an exchange student in Argentina. Among other things, she had a ringside seat at a revolution. She holds a souvenir from the South American country. (Times-News photo)

Local Senior Named to National High School Band Group for 1964

Years of practice on two musical instruments and participation in high school and related music events have led Larry Standley, a student of Del Staughter, to be named to the national high school band group for 1964. The group of only 80 students selected to appear with the United States of America high school band from throughout the United States. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Standley, 408 Maurice street north.

Only outstanding musicians are tapped for the honor of appearing with the band and qualifying background must include outstanding scholastic ability, leadership and character, in addition to musical ability. The high school band organization of high school music.

MISSING STEAM seemed to shock Mrs. Sybil Allred, an operator at the Troy National Laundry plant, as she explained operation of a new pants presser for a few seconds to press a pair of trousers. (Times-News photo)

"Rube Goldberg" Device Aids in Laundry

The legendary Rube Goldberg, the gent who thought up and built all types of machines ranging from pill patterns to those which would test water without any water required—would feel right at home in the laundry business nowadays.

With testing complete, a new machine which presses a pair of trousers in only a few seconds, and which does it in a unique operation, now is in operation at the Troy National Laundry.

Actually, Rube Goldberg had nothing to do with this particular invention, but the first unit was put together in a rather unique place, namely, a garment dry cleaner, that little is left to the imagination.

After the pants are in place and the button is punched, the automatic cycle takes over.

The timing motor begins the cycle. The trousers are placed in the machine and the steam cycle comes on from six to eight seconds, the air drier opens and allows the pants to blow up, thus freeing them of all wrinkles, and two large leg clamps close and squeeze the air out of the legs, thus pressing both legs at the same time.

When this cycle is completed, the cam opens and the trousers are released to the normally open position.

That is all there is to it. The number of trousers pressed in this manner is up to the speed of the operator, because the machine is ready to go any time.

Powell points out, "This is a long way from the old method," Powell commented, "where the trousers were laid out on a table and the operator would have to iron each leg separately."

The new machine, which is only half of it, we have the old machine we just installed, it presses shirts."

This piece of equipment is the result of a long process of trial and error, and the result is a machine that is simple to operate and does the job in less time.

Buhl Resident Started New Career at Age 70

Buhl, Jan. 25 — Most people dot the range in the summer, when they reach the age of 70 retire. Not George McMaster. When he reached 70, he went job hunting and embarked on a new career.

Now who would hire a man 70 years old? Well, Buhl Implement company did. Well, Buhl Implement company did. Well, Buhl Implement company did.

They hired McMaster as a custodian-handman. After finding out what his duties were, he went to work. Now some 20 years later, McMaster is retiring.

On Dec. 11 he reached the age of 70 and decided to call it quits. Employee with 20 years of service are fairly rare. They are even more rare if they didn't go to work until they were 70.

At Buhl Implement they called him "Mac."

He would go to work between 5 and 6 a.m. and have the place shipshape and ready for business. Rain, snow or sunshine wouldn't halt him, as he would walk the few blocks from his home to work.

He was born in Antwerp, Ontario, in 1893. In 1923 he arrived in the United States. Most of his activity was limited to horse trading and mucking. In 1930-31 he entered the freight hauling business and transported freight to the old mining towns of Atlanta, Feather River and Lucky Bar.

The old wagon road is no longer in service. The average trip took six to seven days. In the fall when the snow was on the ground the trip took 18 days. In those days freighters would take the loads as far as they could on wheels. Usually this would be as far as Pine Grove and then they would transfer the load onto sleighs. This would involve reshoeing the horses. At times it would be more advantageous to travel with the horses unsaddled.

In the winter of 1931 McMaster was placed in charge of 2,200 head of sheep near Sand Springs. He had only a dog for a companion. He never lost an animal, but at one time he almost lost himself.

He recalls that cattlemen and sheepmen weren't on the best of terms. Some cattlemen rode up on him and he took a position behind a rock.

"I was carrying a six-gun and they were armed, too," he said. Luckily the only thing exchanged was words.

The hay was gone and there was no open range. McMaster hired some cattlemen and paid more than punching cattle. Hard winters often killed many animals and their carcasses would school. The public school system was very strict and teachers were refused to teach over any excuse.

Private or parochial schools, was very strict and Mrs. Shelton took 16 subjects. However, she said the subjects were very elementary.

This was the fourth year of high school and had first year algebra and three-year geometry.

Also the student reported that she had some 13 years of religion a week.

Students were not encouraged to do any research or any extracurricular work related to school. If one could recall what was printed in the textbook, that was all that was required.

However, if a student exceeded the 30-day limit, then an appointment at a certain time was made, except for school days.

When she arrived home, her family consisted of several Gurdas, women, usually sisters, who recommended cases. All the Gurdas need to know is the date and name of the patient and the location of the injury.

The patient is not allowed to see the Gurdas until a copy is taken through the family. The Gurdas recommended putting a plaster on while and some of her ankle and even tying strings around the ankle and cutting them to release the pain.

Mrs. Shelton exchanged travel clothes and the patient needed during her stay, but explained it was very confusing because one day a dollar would be worth 120 pesos, the next, maybe 120, and the next, only 10.

The wealthy or richer class of people enjoy television, with Ben Hur and western shows very popular. Merchants often place a television sets in their shop windows, hoping people will look at the merchandise during the commercial period.

It is considered poor taste to go to one of the larger cities without going according to Mrs. Shelton. No one would think of going to town in slacks or with hair in rollers. When the girls weren't attending school, they could show off their clothes, but they weren't.

On Christmas day Mrs. Shelton reported it was 120 degrees, and to cool-off they were swimming in the Parana river, where everybody swims.

Midnight mass is celebrated and the richer people decorate artificial trees of palm tree. A big dance is held and there are usually fireworks.

The Christ child here and the Three Kings day and more gifts are exchanged.

Upon learning of the assassination of President Kennedy, schools were closed in Argentina and masses were offered in all Catholic churches.

One of the officials of the country attended the four-hour mass, and Mrs. Shelton's adopted daughter, who was in Buenos Aires, rushed home to be with her.

Mrs. Shelton said the 11 months she spent in Argentina was a "choice experience and she would never forget."

She said she had a hard time getting back to work after thinking, dreaming and visiting with friends and relatives.

Oldrich Bahrain, a string of islands in the Persian gulf, will release an 11-value regular series on Feb. 22, replacing the current issue.

The seven lower values in the new series feature a portrait of the ruler, Shaikh Isma'il bin Baidan Al Khalifa. Two of the higher values show the ruler and the new terminal at Bahrain Airport and two show him and the recently completed deep water jetty.

The U.S. post office department has decided, after a two-year test, to abandon four designations that have been used for some 45 years in first-class postage. The time of cancelling will be indicated only by the letters "A.M." or "P.M." effective Feb. 1.

The change will also cancelable time, particularly in larger offices where cancelling machines must be altered every 30 minutes to change the time.

When evidence of mail is requested by the sender, it will be entered in ink on registered or certified mail receipts or on certificates of mailing for ordinary mail.

A new monthly magazine, "Stamp Collector," has entered the stamp publication field with its first issue, dated January, being a 48-page, illustrated publication emphasizing scientific subjects from a topical point of view.

Annual subscription is $5 from Herbert Rosen, editor, 11 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

BY RYAN WILLIAMS

Pastor, Chapel of the Cross

God has a half-witted brother. That's what the very primitive tribes in Africa say when they are asked to explain all the trouble in the world.

They say that although God is all-wise, he has a half-witted brother, who continually causes God's plans to miscarry.

NAME the problems the world faces today and the underlying cause is not God, but some person or group of persons. Man himself, is often the cause of his own trouble, in which he finds himself.

In Psalm 115 we read: "The heavens, even the heavens, are the Lord's; but the Earth hath been given to the children of men."

Members discussed possible plans for sponsoring the community civil defense training program with reports to be given at the first February meeting. The group adjourned early to attend the Richmond-Hills basketball game.

It may be crude and naive to give the answer to trouble that the primitive people give, but nevertheless, it does hold a real and genuine truth. The truth points in our direction, it tells us much that God has a half-witted brother who continually causes God's plans to miscarry.

Okays Resolution

PAUL, Jan. 25 — The Orange accepted a resolution endorsing diverting water to California Wednesday evening during its meeting.

George Travis, owner, took charge of the meeting in the absence of Master Edith Morgan. Refrainments were served by Mr. Middle East, Zander and Paul.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mrs. Alice Taylor Ross, well known former RICHFIELD resident, celebrated her 100th birthday anniversary Jan. 24 at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Bertie Nickola, in Hermiston. Mrs. Ross spent 33 years in RICHFIELD leaving in 1914 to make her home with Mrs. Nickola and near another daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Cook, also Hermiston. Prior to that she had resided more than 23 years with her only surviving son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Ross, in RICHFIELD. Mrs. Ross was born Dec. 4, 1864, at Mount Moriah, Mo.

She was married there in 1883 to Stanton Ross. The couple resided in RICHFIELD until 1914, when they moved to Hermiston, where they lived until 1919. After six years in Echo, Ore., they moved to RICHFIELD in 1919, where they lived until 1928. She was married there in 1883 to Stanton Ross. The couple resided in RICHFIELD until 1914, when they moved to Hermiston, where they lived until 1919. After six years in Echo, Ore., they moved to RICHFIELD in 1919, where they lived until 1928.

Returning to Oregon in 1919, they lived at Hermiston for nine years and then moved to RICHFIELD, where they lived until 1928. She was married there in 1883 to Stanton Ross. The couple resided in RICHFIELD until 1914, when they moved to Hermiston, where they lived until 1919. After six years in Echo, Ore., they moved to RICHFIELD in 1919, where they lived until 1928.

Mrs. Ross' husband died in 1900 at the age of 97. Four children also have died. Her descendants include two daughters and a son, 13 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

The family party, celebrating her anniversary was attended by over 50 of her descendants, including her son from RICHFIELD, Mrs. Ross, who is very frail and weighs about 50 pounds, attended in a wheelchair. Her eyesight is still good but she can no longer see.

During her years in RICHFIELD, Mrs. Ross made quite a record for herself by making many quilts, especially after her fingers became too stiff for doing any more.

Among the more than 20 quilts she made were four for the Red Cross and four for the American Red Cross. She was proud to own a great grandson, David Ross, RICHFIELD.

"The Story of the Three Bears" could almost be a reality, to a certain extent, for people in the HERMISTON area.

On a two-mile stretch of country road, there lives three families of Bears. Momma and Poppy (Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Baly) and their two sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Baly and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baly.

Separating the Elmer Baly family from the others is a family of "Hills." Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hill, who have a daughter, Nadine, who incidentally has a head full of gold locks.

It seems almost like this town just happened to be in the locations. The latest addition to the area is a family of "Bawagas." Mr. and Mrs. Everett Savage, who settled west of the Hills.

To confuse the situation further, a daughter of Momma and Poppy Baly, Walter, married Everett Savage, father of Everett Savage.

When the "Hills Baly" attended school a few years ago in Hermiston, they had classmates with last names of Fox, Badger and Beaver.

One of their classmates, Molly Kruse, married a "Wolf" from BUTLEY, Jamie Wolf.

The 100-pound fibreglass statue is temporarily placed in the high school gymnasium, adjacent to the entrance. Permanent placement of the statue will be the school from Jan. 27 to Feb. 1.

Mrs. Clifford Conner, class member of 1937, was in charge of arrangements for ordering the statue made by A. E. Jacobs, KETCHUM and BLISS. Cost of the structure was $130, paid for from a fund set over from the class reunion. Delivery was made in late December, 1963.

The tiger was selected as RICHFIELD's mascot in 1927. Various symbols have exemplified the tiger throughout the years, the most recent being a wall hanging of a tiger head drawn by Jack Pounder, a 1958 RICHFIELD high school graduate. The school animal is also called The Tiger.

Mrs. Mabbutt, Shoshone, Described as Able to "Teach Anything to Anybody"

GOODING, Jan. 25 — "Eleven can teach anything to anybody," was a recommendation once written to a high school principal concerning Mrs. Helen Andrusson Mabbutt, teacher of the Gooding Opportunity classroom, and this seems to be quite true, judging from the wonderful response of her 11 students in the class-for the mentally retarded at Gooding elementary school.

Since entering the field of special education six years ago, Mrs. Mabbutt has attended school in San Francisco on PTA and Jay-C-Ette scholarships, and after 30 hours received her special education credential.

Born on Columbia day (which she says made her feel adventurous enough to attempt teaching of mentally retarded) at Graceland, and her family moved several times during her early years, and she was graduated from high school at Downey, then attended Alhambra Normal school for two years.

When her graduation was taught at what used to be the Cottonwood school near the Shoshone Joe mine for five years. At that school she taught all eight grades, which she feels gave her a good background for the type of teaching she does now. After this, Mrs. Mabbutt continued her education at the then Idaho State college and got her degree.

She says she can remember telling her father, A. L. Andrusson, when they moved to Shoshone, and also made her first trip from Graceland to Shoshone, that "at least they wouldn't have to worry about moving again, because the land is good to the end of the earth."

She says since that time her feelings have changed, but she is very fond of this part of the country and she says she will stay here as long as her family make their home. This was quite a record because during her early years, during her first eight years of schooling, she had 15 teachers.

Following the war, she resumed teaching, first teaching the first grade, then remedial reading in junior high school, and then serving as high school librarian, all at Shoshone.

She first became interested in teaching the mentally retarded because she felt so terribly sorry for the child who lapsed behind in school and couldn't keep up with the class.

She felt something should be done to save the dignity of this small person, and that she might be able to give them a feeling of self-worth and dignity to every one.

With the help of the state Jay-C-Ette organization, the opportunity classroom was organized with Mrs. Mabbutt as chairman, first and only teacher for the classroom.

The first year, the group was in the high school building, then they moved to the "new" building in the town of Shoshone for the past three years, they have had their own room in the elementary building, which is the ideal situation, since the children mix with the other students of grade-school age, and have access to the playground and school room facilities necessary for their development.

During her "spare time" she has been a member of the Gamma, PEO, and also a member of the LDS church, also member that the child is more serving as a Sunday school teacher.

MRS. RICHARD MABBUTT

like other children than differently. They have brown hair, black eyes, and are tall, short, etc., exactly like all other children, and most especially, they have the same need to be loved. It is this feeling which endears her to all her students.

She also feels that the school is responsible not only for the academic phase of the course of study, but also for the individual's personal, social and occupational growth, development and adjustment.

The vocational phase of the retarded's education could not be achieved without the cooperation of businessmen, community organizations and governmental agencies in the locality," she added.

Asked about hobbies, Mrs. Mabbutt says she has a hobby, but she also manages to find time for bowling, and many other activities. She also has served on the state PTA executive board of the Idaho Education Association as chairman of the child welfare and improvement committee.

She has served on the state Association for Retarded Children, as a board member. Last summer she taught a summer session at the Idaho Pals branch of the DVP model education center, concerning methods and materials for special education classrooms.

In addition to this she has been a member of the Gamma, PEO, and also a member of the LDS church, also member that the child is more serving as a Sunday school teacher.

teacher, because she says she attends anyway and might as well be doing something. She also mentions to sandwich in some bridge.

She mentioned the fact that of her family of 10 brothers and sisters, eight were either teaching or were qualified to teach school.

At present, she and her husband, Dick, who she has been married for 25 years, are in the process of remodeling or "rebuilding" an old house, and she says she feels this is one field in which she is not suited.

The couple has four children; three sons, Rick, who is a junior at the University of Idaho, where he is majoring in journalism-journalism-a sophomore at the University of Idaho, majoring in metallurgical engineering, Christopher, a freshman at Shoshone high school, and Andrea, the lone girl, is a preschooler.

CONSERVATION OFFICER: Snow Cover Often Forces Pheasants To Roads, Where Cars Create Hazard

By JIM HUMBOLDT
Idaho fish and game department.

BOISE, Jan. 25.—Blizzards are on the roads in almost every part of the state. This is the general snow cover and because Idaho went into the winter with above-normal pheasant numbers.

A few inches of the white stuff forces pheasants to the roads to pick up grit and to salvage grain kernels which have leaked from passing farm trucks.

The largest road congregations of these colorful birds are seen in the upper Snake river valley from Pocatello north to St. Anthony. Where an unusually deep snow cover has persisted since mid-December. Other parts of the pheasant range have been hit by a series of old man winter.

"Idaho can give pheasants a break, spelled 'break' for predators, by watching them, reducing speed and honking horns to break the 'ringneck' of the road."

Substantial winter losses are annual according to Elwood B. Bowers, state bird supervisor, Idaho and game department.

On average, about 100,000 of the mid-summer pheasant population will die by the time of the next breeding season. A large portion of this loss occurs during the winter months, says Bowers.

Natural causes such as predation, disease, blizzards and starvation tend to cull out the weak and weak birds first. Feeding motorists are not so efficient.

Because of good production last summer, Idaho went into the winter with above-normal pheasant numbers. Road kills, plus winter weather, can be expected as nature goes about the business of culling the high pheasant population down to winter carrying capacity of the area.

"Road-strewn—that's band feeding of pheasants along highway is a poor practice. Band feeding further concentrates the birds near places where they are subject to highway kill. Many studies, some from the game department, producing studies at Nevada and the Snake river valley, show that ringnecked pheasants can endure long periods of food shortage without significant starvation loss. If any supplemental feeding is done, it should be of the dispersed type, such as occurs when individual farmers scatter a little grain to help the birds wintering near a feedlot or barnyard."

When severe winter conditions come to a pheasant range, it is almost impossible to help those birds that are in need of help. And even where heavy pheasant starvation losses have occurred, good ringneck reproduction the following spring has bounced pheasant numbers back.

A new South Dakota publication, "Pheasant Feeding—What's Contained in the Statement," in the 50-year history of South Dakota Pheasants, poor pheasant hunting.

Revolt Brews As England Aids Nation

KUANG, Malaysia, Jan. 25.—A tragic battle familiar to scores of Southeast Asian cities may be developing in this tiny jungle capital on the island of Borneo.

Nervous citizens whisper about a "communist" band of looters in the countryside. "Young helicopter pilots" have been seen, excitedly telling the day's flight. Soldiers pack rifles under a tropical sun.

It is almost like the cities of South Viet Nam and Laos—many here fear that Kuang is in for what has happened in Saigon and Vientiane.

Under a canopy of big power lines, the Kuang government has been raised by disgruntled factions, foreign intruders and a highly disciplined communist organization.

Blizzards so far has been limited to "service" chattering for citizens of Sarawak state, who gained independence from Britain Sept. 16 and joined in the forming of Malaysia.

Defense agreements with Malaysia have taken the heaviest toll on the results still are valid. Pheasants are hardy and well-adjusted to the vagaries of weather in this state. Even under severe conditions, an excellent pheasant range, the likelihood of birds finding a available weed seeds, waste grain and other plant parts will assure some balance in the diet during the test birds.

It is noteworthy that the cock and hen in pen No. 7 survived the full 25 days without food. The smaller hen in this pen, survived to the 19th day without anything to eat.

locks and are carrying the burden of trying to stamp out terrorism.

There are about 5,000 British troops in Sarawak. British also maintain the main line of defense in neighboring Sabah, formerly British North Borneo.

The question for most everyone here is, "What will happen?"

The Indonesian president is regarded by most in Kuang as the mastermind of the young federation's troubles. British officials insist that Indonesian army officers and non-coms are leading raids over the border of Indonesian Borneo.

It is nearly impossible, however, to seal the hundreds of miles along the border. The British are succeeding primarily in reacting after attacks, not in making them.

Valley Education Students Teach
IDaho STATE COLLEGE, Pocatello, Jan. 25.—Six Magic Valley education majors will be among those doing nine weeks of practice teaching in Idaho schools next semester.

Frances Holloway, Twin Falls physical education major; Richard T. Eilers, Twin Falls chemistry and mathematics; Dale Thornberry, Bull, history; and Barbara Tyler, Gooding, English, will be assigned to the Pocatello high school.

Leland Mink, Gooding, mathematics, will teach at Highland high school, and Catherine Anderson, Twin Falls, will teach grade three in a Pocatello grade school.

REDDYTORIAL

"Why Pay Taxes to Ourselves?"

So runs the gibber to the question of why federal electric systems do not pay taxes like everyone else.

It doesn't wash. There's no valid reason why any commercial enterprise, regardless of ownership, should be a sacred cow.

Tax generation by businesses of all kinds is desperately needed—on the federal, state and local levels. Take the Bonneville Power Administration, for instance. If its power rates contained a full share of taxes equivalent, the income could well be used—not only for state and local taxes presently avoided—but to help retire a part of the national debt after deducting enough to remedy Bonneville's continuing deficit in operations.

There's nothing extreme or outlandish about this suggestion in a nation whose economic system supports government through business enterprise, and every enterprise is expected to do its proper share.

But, for Bonneville, the idea might be self-defeating. Without tax avoidance and other subsidies—paid for by taxpayers—Bonneville would be hard put to justify its existence. Its principal stock in trade would be taken away.

You can't expect Bonneville or its "preference" customers to applaud the idea, but to taxpayers it makes solid sense. Don't you agree?

fall and two periods of cold rain. Minimum temperatures were near or below freezing throughout. 16 of the original 21 test birds survived. A cock and four hens died.

Throckmorton reports that pheasants on the summit died a common winter food in parts of the north Idaho pheasant range, came through the test with better flesh and health than all of the others. The same pheasants, and those on black locust and burdock seed, lost about one-third of their weight. All but one survived the 25 days of testing. A head-injury, caused by flying against the wire looking for an escape route, contributed to the loss of one of the hens on the burdock diet on the 21th day.

"Hens on the Russian olive diet averaged a 38 per cent loss of weight in the test," Throckmorton says. "One of these hens was injured, which may have affected her survival record."

Birds on the hackberry diet made the poorest showing—however, two of the three birds survived. The cock in this pen lost only 24 per cent of its weight in the test. Throckmorton says, "One of these hens was injured, which may have affected her survival record."

"Feeds, found over some of Idaho's pheasant range, is available to pheasants in winter because of its tall growth habit. These seeds provided food for the two smallest test hens. These underweight females survived to 19 and 25 days of the experiment. The cock in the same pen was in good shape at the end of the 25 days, but had lost 36 per cent of his weight."

Work on 'Can Can' Set Under Way

Scenery for the Dillette production in March will be practically hand-made. "Can Can" will be presented at the Filer high school auditorium March 6, 7, 8, 12, 13 and 14, officials announce, and the "big push" to get everything ready has started, especially in the field of scenery construction.

Construction supervision, in a vacant downtown store in Filer, is under the direction of Gertrude Ward. She gets lots of help from Dillette members.

Original scenery design is the brainchild of H. Paul Killa, production director.

Permanent background setting will be made up of free-standing, open and closed portals. It will be completed for each scene by two-dimensional artwork.

Hand-painted for the production started Jan. 3 and will continue until opening night, James LaBrosse, Castleton, president of the Dillette group of Magic Valley, expressed the opinion that "Can Can" will be one of the most popular shows presented.

He also said plans for ticket sale will be announced soon.

WENDELL, Jan. 25 — A 10-week art course on drawing, composition and oil painting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Wendell high school. The classes will be directed by Roy Mason and Charlotte Dugan.

All former members of the art class are urged to bring their notebooks, pencils, charcoal and drawing boards. Also bring paintings from former workshops. Interested people are welcome to join the group.

Exchange Club Meets at Burley

BURLEY, Jan. 25 — Burley Exchange club heard Mrs. Laab give highlights of work the club's Daughters do for the community at the noon luncheon Thursday at Nabel's cafe with President Eugene Holmberg, presiding.

Report was given on the contributions placed in various business locations in the city to aid people wishing to save the Draisine Fruit fund. Draisine Pruitt has arrived in New York for medical treatment, in hopes of being able to walk again.

Mishap Reported

JEROME, Jan. 25 — Jerome police reported a minor accident occurred at 7:17 p.m. Thursday on North Lincoln street. James H. Silbaugh, 79, Jerome, was the driver of a 1960 Chevrolet which collided with a parked 1940 Dodge pickup truck owned by Kenneth Miller, 42, Jerome.

SMALLEST HEARING AID IN THE WORLD

WORN INSIDE THE EAR

Sonotone has done it again with the "WHISP-EAR" — the world's smallest hearing aid, worn entirely in the ear. It's cordless hearing — no cords down the neck, nothing behind the ear, nothing on the body. The new Sonotone snugly fits in the hollow of the ear. It weighs only 1/5th of an ounce (including tiny battery inside) and is so small it's hardly noticeable.

The "WHISP-EAR" can help 7 out of 10 persons with hearing losses. Slips in and out of your ear so easily — ideal for those who "hear but don't understand." As small as a dime, as light as a nickel.

Here's better hearing from Sonotone — the remarkable model — the "WHISP-EAR" worn inside the ear.

COMFORT SOUND HEARING INSTRUMENT DEVELOPED

A new hearing instrument first introduced by World Famous Tele Laboratories brings a totally new comfort to those who wear hearing aids. It is especially for those who have never used a hearing aid, or those who have become accustomed to the loud background noises of ordinary hearing aids.

The new "Tele" (radio electronic circuit) eliminates most unwanted noise so that the user can hear only the speech and music he desires, as clear as a bell when you wear this new aid. Harsh loud sounds that can cause such discomfort with ordinary hearing aids are automatically softened with the new TELE-TOUCH SOUND CONTROL.

The new Tele-TOUCH Sound Instruments are especially valuable in correction of nerve deafness, and the problems of those who hear but do not understand. They are also of great value in speech and music, and are useful in noisy areas, in noisy crowds, at a busy street with noisy traffic.

Best of all, the new Tele-TOUCH sound instruments are entirely non-surgical, and are available in a wide variety of styles and prices.

California Promotes Jr. College

SAN MATEO, Calif., Jan. 25 (U.P.)—The junior college, long-scorned stepchild of education—undervalued, unwanted and ridiculed—has come into its own in California.

Like Cinderella, it has been transformed into the belle of the ball. Like Cinderella, it has a future both dazzling and awesome.

Two-year junior or community colleges are skyrocketing in enrollment and prestige all across the country, but nowhere more than in California. Here, the goal of free higher education for all is nearing reality.

Unique White Chinchilla Slated for Introduction in Magic Valley Soon

WENDELL, Jan. 25.—There's something different in the animal world—furs bearing animal skins that caters to the fashions so dear to the hearts of women—and that something is the white chinchilla.

Up to the present, according to JoAnne Craner, a local chinchilla rancher, there have been several reports of a white chinchilla being born. The chinchillas in these reports, however, all proved to be albinos, which live only a short time or have no power to reproduce.

However, a true white chinchilla was born some time ago on the Wilson Chinchilla ranch in California.

The birth came just 32 years after the first of the little furry animals were introduced into the United States by Mathias P. Chapman, who brought them from South America. Eleven animals were in the initial shipment.

Today the animal is protected animals. Demand for chinchilla fur is reported, accordingly, to Mas Craner, to exceed the supply, and although the mutation pet market is "still a dream right now," the future is bright. Spread of chinchilla ranches

In Maple Valley is expected to result in establishment of a new industry. Because of the unique color the fur cannot be imitated by dying. The market has been well established.

"The fashionable lady fleckle," Miss Craner said. "But the industry is coming up with colors she cannot resist. Much work is still to be done before perfection of the new colors, but they will be on the market sooner than many people think."

CEREMONY DUE
IDAHO STATE UNIVERSITY,

Pocatello, Jan. 28.—Larry D. Heman and Sidney M. Johns, both of Twin Falls, and John D. Sanders, Jerome, will be among the eight ROTC advance course cadets to be commissioned as army second lieutenants in a ceremony at 4 p.m. Monday at Idaho State university. The public is invited to the event in the Student

In fact, Miss Craner reports, the recent purchase of $25,000 in animals by Muta-Chin, Inc., has resulted in Idaho having the largest mutation chinchilla ranch in the world. Many of these white animals are now living on Ken Badler's ranch near Nampa and are soon expected in Magic Valley.

One or two years of general or vocational education, and those working toward a degree won't necessarily get it. By at least 10 per cent, and probably more, it will go on to four-year colleges and universities.

Because they are locally controlled and financed, there may be no such thing as a typical California junior college. The College of San Mateo, however, may serve as an illustration of how they have grown in size and importance.

When it came time to build its new campus.

Even before the move into the present College Heights campus, there were definite plans to open one branch campus by 1963, another by 1967. Possible sites for a third branch are under active consideration.

To pay for this further expansion, the voters will be asked to approve a 12.8 million dollar bond issue next March 24.

The animal itself has a main shelter of hay-pellets-and-water. Having no odor, they are exceptionally clean and bathe in punctations each day. The fur does not shed once a day. The fur so thick feline cannot live on the animals. They sleep by day and play by night. The littering comes twice a year on the average.

At present, several Mario-Vaj-

The college, then called San Mateo Junior College, opened in 1927 with 100 students and a faculty of 20. Today it has a 5,000-student body, 100 faculty members, 1,000 day students, and another 5,000 students in the evening college.

The college's first classes were held in the hallways and apartments of local residents. The first building, last year, cost $1 million. It moved into its own 35 million dollar campus high atop a hill with a magnificent view of San Francisco Bay.

The 1927-68 budget was $4,821,000, with 35 percent from local taxes, 35.35 percent from the state, and 29.65 percent from federal sources. Most remarkable of all, in all those years the San Mateo Junior College district has never had a deficit for a general fund. The bond issue submitted to the voters for $5.9 million, was approved by a 3-1 margin.

By operating economically, saving its money, and investing wisely, the district had nearly big new V8 power

big new self-adjusting brakes

CHEVY II by Chevrolet

You don't need a big car to get g performance. Not any more. You'll quickly see why when you check the '64 Chevy II.

There are two new h performance options—optional extra-cost engines for you to pick from? Chevrolet's strapping 195-hp Turbo-Fire V8. And a new chrome-trimmed 155-hp Turbo-Thrift Six.

If you've got a mind to pick one of these to pass, these are the engines that can leave either one safely behind you. In fact, this new Chevy II packs a wallop everywhere but in your wallet.

New brakes match this power, too. Bigger, to dissipate heat faster. Self-adjusting, to save you money. Other easy-care features include DelcoTron generators and a long-lasting fully aluminum muffler.

There are a lot of Chevy II models to choose from. A lot of extra-cost options and accessories to customize on just about any way you'd like. And a whole lot of fun to look forward to. At a very low cost. Test drive Chevy II at your Chevrolet dealer a soon. You'll like it!

Canal Crisis Recalls Suez War Incident

CAIRO, Jan. 25 (AP)—When President Gamal Abdel Nasser seized the Suez Canal and precipitated a world crisis in 1956, some Suez Canal incidents in the past were recalled.

These were largely incidents by British and maritime interests in Paris and London, concerned the Egyptians could not run the Suez Canal anyway, and they sought American backing for a tough go at Nasser. The American government refused, and the ensuing British-French military invasion of the Suez turned into a political disaster.

Against this background, and now having run their canal successfully, the Egyptians are open participants of Panama in its fight to wrest the Panama Canal from Washington's control.

"Nationalism has at last caught up with the Panamanian people and they are now ready to exercise their right of sovereignty over the canal just as the Egyptian people did in 1956, and now the United States recognizes this and leaves in the hands of the Panamanians the Canal Zone," said the Egyptian Gazette. The comment was typical.

The histories of the world's most important man-made waterways have been intertwined since the beginning. Both were largely conceived by a French diplomat, engineer and dreamer, Ferdinand de Lesseps.

De Lesseps was gloriously successful in Egypt. The 10-year construction project was completed in November, 1869, by a gala opening of the Suez Canal, with the French Empress Eugenie taking the first official 100-mile ride through the "world's richest ditch" linking the Mediterranean with the Red sea and Indian ocean. The celebrations went on for days.

De Lesseps' Panama venture was infamous. He headed the French company attempting the first Panama Canal. By 1888 the effort collapsed and De Lesseps was even condemned for misappropriating money, though he never went to prison.

In Panama, the French engineer encountered problems wholly different from those of the sea-level Suez Canal — for one the necessity of cutting through mountains and holding shoring across a continental divide through locks. Panama's endemic yellow fever also had to be overcome — as it was later by the Americans — and the French-American politician to be dealt with differed from the Egyptian types.

It is worth an historical footnote that if De Lesseps had succeeded in Panama, the present

OLD MAGAZINES have a way of piling up on the reader, Mrs. Wayne Cox, 312 Ash street, decided instead of burning the stack she would give them away. To her surprise, the telephone rang that day. She found out that school, particularly, like old magazines and some people called to see if they could finish combined stores. The old amplifier, which was scheduled for the junk pile, was in demand by many of the callers. (Times-News photo)

Repellent Guards Trees From Animals

CENTRALIA, Wash., Jan. 25 (AP)—Researchers report discovery of a repellent which promises to protect young forest trees from animals.

Issue of sovereignty, possibly would not have arisen. The United States concedes "virtual sovereignty" to Panama in the Canal Zone but claims control rights in perpetuity under the 1903 canal treaty. Unlike the old Suez pact between a private company and a government, the Panama issue is between government and government.

De Lesseps' ventures, though backed by European governments, were private. His company obtained concessions. In addition, in the case of Suez, the concession was for a fixed period of 99 years. In contrast, the Panama Canal clause covering perpetual control from blowing damage by animals, for up to five years. Laboratory test results of a new organic phosphate, called OMPA, were announced by doctors at the Centralia forestry research center of Western Washington.

Dr. J. A. Lawrence, a wildlife biologist, said OMPA should curb the eating and gnawing of young trees by mountain beaver, rabbits and other wildlife. Such rodent damage has been a major problem in starting new tree crops on harvested forest lands.

"The repellent has the potential of supplying protection for long periods of time, especially if it is applied to the soil of the root zone."

WORKSHOP SET
UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Jan. 25 (AP)—Keith Billington, Rupert, and Robert Smith, Twin Falls, will be among the performers at a University of Idaho opera workshop at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the recital hall of the music building.

Magazine Reader Discovers Residents Like to Browse Through Old Stacks

Magazine readers have one thing in common—When they get through with a magazine it usually goes into a pile or stack somewhere.

The more prudent readers quickly throw away their old magazines, with the possible exception of doctors' offices where occasionally an old copy of "Collier's" can be found.

However, a great many magazine readers are like Mrs. Wayne Cox, 312 Ash street. Mrs. Cox usually puts her discarded magazines into a pile. She claims more a stack of magazines begins to take form. It can get the best of an individual. Once the stack reaches a certain size, it becomes too big to burn and the garbage truck won't haul it away.

So, Mrs. Cox dropped a short note to "Fox Show" saying she had old magazines and other stuff to give away. A few minutes after the note, she wanted to give away. One of the first things given away was a stack of old magazines. Her episode with the public convinced her old magazines might be classified as junk to some people, but to others, they are needed material. She has enough comments from teachers and special schools to take care of many magazines—now and in the future. "I had no idea people were so interested in old magazines," she said. Nor did she realize they were in demand by teachers. The telephone rang for days with people calling to see if she still had any magazines. Several years ago she ran a small notice in the paper when the magazine pile reached large proportions. The public heaped this pile away, but interest in old magazines, according to Mrs. Cox, must have doubled or tripled.

56 Per Cent Of Blaine Taxes Paid

HAILEY, Jan. 25 — Fifty-six per cent of the 1963 real property taxes in Blaine county was collected during the first half payment period, according to Mrs. Fred Povey, tax collector.

This is approximately the same percentage of taxes collected by the Dec. 20 deadline for the past several years.

For the most part, taxing units will receive more money from this collection than they have in the past with the valuation of the county upped from $7,223,171 for 1963 tax purposes to $8,500,533 1963.

The total tax charge for the 1963 year is $200,837.71, against $222,229.65 for 1962. Blaine county schools will receive $30,700.86 more tax revenue from this year's taxes than in 1962. They will collect a total of

PTA to Meet

WENDELL, Jan. 25 (AP)—PTA will meet at 8 p.m. Jan. 26 at the community center at 1200 1st ave. for Christmas school fund drive.

James Morris, guidance counselor for Gooding school, will be guest speaker.

This year's PTA fund drive will be accounted for by Mrs. Povey, tax collector. It was the case in many counties as well.

Blaine county will pay 1963 taxes which amount to $11,962.50. Other taxing units for the year will receive more money from this collection than they have in the past with the valuation of the county upped from $7,223,171 for 1963 tax purposes to $8,500,533 1963.

Leaves for 1963 were set by the time-revaluation figures. Many taxpayers have expressed the hope that 1964 taxes may be lowered to offset the rise in valuation.
